Over The Last Week
As of August 16, 2019

Quick Take

- The percentage of world markets trading above key moving averages decreased last week, reducing the long-term model score.
- Market risk continued to increase and is one of the reasons we decreased our exposure to the stock market.
- Several measures of investor sentiment became even more bearish. This improved the score of the intermediate-term model, as we view investor sentiment from a contrarian perspective.

Overall Model Output

A Closer Look at Our Tactical Positioning Targets

Each day, Meeder analyzes and ranks over 70 different factors from our short, intermediate, and long-term models. The dynamic statistical model incorporates factors covering macroeconomic, fundamental, trends and technical analysis to estimate the potential reward and marketplace risk of the equity markets. The Meeder Spectrum, Muirfield, Balanced, Moderate Allocation, and Conservative Allocation funds utilize this strategy for the Defensive Equity portion of their portfolios. The Defensive Equity Strategy guides the allocation of each fund's equity sleeve and the actual proportion of equity investments in any fund will vary depending on the investment objectives of the fund.

Understanding the Defensive Equity Snapshot

The vertical axis of the grid combines the scores of our long-, intermediate-, and short-term models to arrive at the reward value for the stock market. The horizontal axis represents the model's internal measure of stock market risk. The reward value is divided by marketplace risk to arrive at our recommended percentage of Net Equity Exposure.
