Over The Last Week
As of October 11, 2019

Quick Take

- Despite Friday's sharp rally, the S&P 500 remains range bound and has struggled to surpass its July 2019 peak. Some of our short-term trend indicators remain negative.
- As we begin the fourth quarter, market risk has increased due to concerns over slowing global growth and the U.S. – China trade dispute.
- + Despite short-term volatility, long-term trends remain positive and individual investors have displayed significant pessimism during the past week. This spike in negative sentiment is a positive sign within our intermediate-term model.

Overall Model Output

A Closer Look at Our Tactical Positioning Targets

Each day, Meeder analyzes and ranks over 70 different factors from our short, intermediate, and long-term models. The dynamic statistical model incorporates factors covering macroeconomic, fundamental, trends and technical analysis to estimate the potential reward and marketplace risk of the equity markets. The Meeder Spectrum, Muirfield, Balanced, Moderate Allocation, and Conservative Allocation funds utilize this strategy for the Defensive Equity portion of their portfolios. The Defensive Equity Strategy guides the allocation of each fund's equity sleeve and the actual proportion of equity investments in any fund will vary depending on the investment objectives of the fund.

Understanding the Defensive Equity Snapshot

The vertical axis of the grid combines the scores of our long-, intermediate-, and short-term models to arrive at the reward value for the stock market. The horizontal axis represents the model's internal measure of stock market risk. The reward value is divided by marketplace risk to arrive at our recommended percentage of Net Equity Exposure.
