As of January 17, 2020

Quick Take

- + With the market trading near its all-time high, a variety of trend and momentum factors within our short-term model remain positive.
- + Downside protection purchased by institutions has decreased over the past few weeks. This suggests a favorable outlook from institutional investors, which is a positive sign.
- One factor that we utilize tracks the expectations of individual investors and seeks to quantify market sentiment. An increase in optimism from these investors has caused the intermediate-term model to worsen over the past week.

Overall Model Output

A Closer Look at Our Tactical Positioning Targets

Each day, Meeder analyzes and ranks over 70 different factors from our short, intermediate, and long-term models. The dynamic statistical model incorporates factors covering macroeconomic, fundamental, trends and technical analysis to estimate the potential reward and marketplace risk of the equity markets. The Meeder Spectrum, Muirfield, Balanced, Moderate Allocation, and Conservative Allocation funds utilize this strategy for the Defensive Equity portion of their portfolios. The Defensive Equity Strategy guides the allocation of each fund's equity sleeve and the actual proportion of equity investments in any fund will vary depending on the investment objectives of the fund.

Understanding the Defensive Equity Snapshot

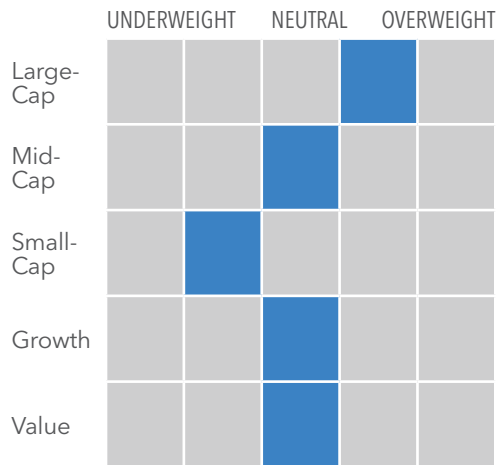

The vertical axis of the grid combines the scores of our long-, intermediate-, and short-term models to arrive at the reward value for the stock market. The horizontal axis represents the model's internal measure of stock market risk. The reward value is divided by marketplace risk to arrive at our recommended percentage of Net Equity Exposure.
