Over The Last Week
As of July 3, 2020

Quick Take

- + Market risk declined during the past week, but still remains at a relatively high level. This improvement was a primary contributor to our increase in equity exposure.
- + The June U.S. non-farm payrolls report indicated an increase of 4.8 million jobs last week, exceeding analyst expectations. Our IPS model's quantitative measure of economic expectations improved, which led to an increase in the score of our intermediate-term model.
- Since the beginning of June, credit spreads have widened, indicating more potential risk in the credit market. Higher risk in credit can sometimes lead to increased volatility in equity markets.

A Closer Look at Our Tactical Positioning Targets

Each day, Meeder analyzes and ranks over 70 different factors from our short, intermediate, and long-term models. The dynamic statistical model incorporates factors covering macroeconomic, fundamental, trends and technical analysis to estimate the potential reward and marketplace risk of the equity markets. The Meeder Spectrum, Muirfield, Balanced, Moderate Allocation, and Conservative Allocation funds utilize this strategy for the Defensive Equity portion of their portfolios. The Defensive Equity Strategy guides the allocation of each fund's equity sleeve and the actual proportion of equity investments in any fund will vary depending on the investment objectives of the fund.

Understanding the Defensive Equity Snapshot

The vertical axis of the grid combines the scores of our long-, intermediate-, and short-term models to arrive at the reward value for the stock market. The horizontal axis represents the model's internal measure of stock market risk. The reward value is divided by marketplace risk to arrive at our recommended percentage of Net Equity Exposure.
