Over The Last Week
As of September 25, 2020

Quick Take

+ Individual Investor sentiment quickly turned bearish after the equity weakness during September. For example, the AAI Sentiment Survey showed a higher percentage of investors are bearish than bullish for a record 31 consecutive weeks. This type of skepticism often surrounds market turning points.

+ The long-term model remains in very favorable territory. Despite the short-term volatility, our long-term trend factors remain mostly positive.

- Institutional demand factors in our intermediate-term model continue to show a lack of significant fund flow activity during September. Ideally, we would like to see a surge in demand following this recent decline in equities.

Overall Model Output

A Closer Look at Our Tactical Positioning Targets

Each day, Meeder analyzes and ranks over 70 different factors from our short, intermediate, and long-term models. The dynamic statistical model incorporates factors covering macroeconomic, fundamental, trends and technical analysis to estimate the potential reward and marketplace risk of the equity markets. The Meeder Spectrum, Muirfield, Balanced, Moderate Allocation, and Conservative Allocation funds utilize this strategy for the Defensive Equity portion of their portfolios. The Defensive Equity Strategy guides the allocation of each fund's equity sleeve and the actual proportion of equity investments in any fund will vary depending on the investment objectives of the fund.

Understanding the Defensive Equity Snapshot

The vertical axis of the grid combines the scores of our long-, intermediate-, and short-term models to arrive at the reward value for the stock market. The horizontal axis represents the model's internal measure of stock market risk. The reward value is divided by marketplace risk to arrive at our recommended percentage of Net Equity Exposure.
